In twenty-first century Western culture, leaders are rewarded for their drive, decisiveness, productivity, and long work hours. What would it look like for a leader to cultivate the inner life, to step off the treadmill, to take time apart for personal reflection? What would leadership arising from a core of spiritual groundedness and compassion look like?

Outcomes:

- -- Learn what soulful leadership is and how it is manifested in practice.
- -- Identify the times in your life when you have led with soul and the times you haven't.
- -- Reawaken your dreams and learn how to make them become reality.
- -- Learn the power of gratitude in an organization.
- -- Learn how to operationalize the mission in day-to-day organizational life.
- -- Learn how individual and organizational transformation dovetail and support one another.

Margaret Benefiel, PhD, Executive Officer of Executive Soul, offers consulting, coaching, and spiritual direction for leaders and organizations. She specializes in helping people discover the congruence between their deepest values and their work and does so by helping organizations develop values-based leadership.

Dr. Benefiel is an adjunct faculty member at Andover Newton Theological School in Boston and a visiting lecturer at All Hallows College in Dublin, Ireland. She has served as Chair of the Academy of Management's Management, Spirituality, and Religion Group and has also served in various leadership roles in Spiritual Directors International.

She is the author of Soul at Work (Seabury, 2005) and The Soul of a Leader (Crossroad, 2008), and coeditor of The Soul of Supervision (Morehouse, 2010).
